STONES FOR ROOSEVELT

Lively Experience In Fort Wayne.

ROUGHS ON WAR PATH

The Right of Free Speech Interfered With by Disorderly Indiana Bryanites.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Oct. 10.—Hoodlums of Fort Wayne tonight attacked Governor Roosevelt's party. In Calhoun street, shortly before the head of the procession reached the rink where the Governor was to speak, a party of roughs on the sidewalk threw a shower of stones at Governor Roosevelt's carriage. One struck Governor Roosevelt on the shoulder, and another, aimed at the Governor, missed him and struck Curtis Guild, Jr., of Boston in the face. The Governor was not hurt and laughed the matter off. The horses were whipped up and got away from the roughs.

MARION, Ind., Oct. 11.—Governor Roosevelt's train was sidetracked four miles from this city during the night after its run from Fort Wayne and the Republican Vice Presidential candidate slept peacefully until 7 o'clock. After the train left Fort Wayne, the stone-throwing incident in the streets of that city was the chief topic of conversation. It was considered beyond doubt to have been the work of hoodlums. Curtis H. Guild, Jr., who was struck in the face by a stone thrown at Governor Roosevelt, was not seriously hurt, receiving only a light cut on his upper lip.

"I was not injured at all," said Governor Roosevelt. "There is danger that this matter may be magnified. It amounted to nothing."

Governor Mount, who was aboard the train, expressed deep regret at the occurrence.

"Nothing has happened in years," he said, "that gives me so much sorrow as that attack. It was the work of rowdies only and should not be permitted to reflect upon the good Democrats of the town, for they would not countenance such an outrage."

And thereupon Governor Mount went to Governor Roosevelt and extended an apology in the name of the State of Indiana.

United States Senator Fairbanks, who made an address at the tent at Fort Wayne, declares that before the stone-throwing happened, he was told by a prominent citizen of Fort Wayne that there had been a carefully laid plot on the part of the rough element of the Fort Wayne Democracy to break up the meeting as they did in 1884 when Blaine came here to speak.

"They succeeded then," said the Senator, "but this time they were discovered and warned to desist. On the way to the tent I was told that not in years had a Republican speaker been permitted to make an address in the vicinity of the tent, but when we got there we found the tent surrounded by policemen and there was no interference. That there was a plan to interfere with Governor Roosevelt I am assured."

Curtis Guild, Jr., said he shouted to Governor Roosevelt, in whose carriage he was riding, to dodge when he saw the men raise their arms to throw the stones. "Just then," he said, "a stone struck him on the shoulder, and, glancing off, hit me on the lips. Another broke the carriage lamp. But for the quickness with which we were driven from the spot serious injury might have been inflicted."

Fert Wayne is strongly Democratic and the shouts for Bryan were more numerous than for Roosevelt. Harry S. New, Indiana member of the Republican National Committee, who was also in Governor Roosevelt's carriage, said: "A man whom I saw threw the rock which hit Governor Roosevelt, and I described him to the police at once, but they could not find him."

HOW A BANK WAS PLUNDERED

The Easy Graft of a Young Embezzling Bank Clerk.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—President Heldrigger of the Elizabethport Banking Company, which has been systematically robbed, as alleged, by William Schriber, the missing young bookkeeper, is quoted by the Press as saying:

"I will spend the last cent of my private fortune to put that boy behind the bars. We'll never let up on him. Our bank is in the Pinkerton combination, and we have set other detectives at work with promise of large rewards."

"Personally, I think whatever is in Europe and we shall soon catch him. His pronounced stammering and his dwarfish size will make him noticeable wherever he goes. Then, too, we have reason to believe he has only a small supply of money, which he will soon run through."

"As for Mrs. Hart, whatever property she may have in the way of furniture, gowns, jewels and horses belongs by right and by law to us, and we mean to have them."

"People are amazed to find that the youngest employee of a bank, hardly more than a boy, could have looted a bank so thoroughly, stealing more than the entire capital stock and the surplus, and I do not blame them. I acknowledge that the directors are partly to blame. One businesslike examination of the bank would have discovered the steal at the beginning."

"The whole steal was possible only because of the construction of an old office and it was continued because of the marvellous head for figures Schriber had. It is the old, old story of a bank employee having access to both the books and the cash. When we moved into our new quarters in July I insisted on having the cash included in a separate iron-barred office, where Schriber could get at neither the teller's department nor the vault. Since then Schriber did not steal a cent. He could not get at it. When I demanded that Cashier Smith verify the books on various occasions he let Schriber handle one set of books. So quick was Schriber at figures that he mentally added every item of his embezzlement at the proper place, making the balance perfect from the figures he called out to Smith."

A detachment of 800 French troops, with six guns, started October 11, to relieve the Catholic priests who are held prisoners at Ching Hsien, sixty miles south. A detachment of 300 French troops started in the direction of Pao Ting Fu on Saturday to cooperate with 400 troops reported to have left Peking.
